Campus & Program Moves

Eastside Memorial ECHS, LASA, LBJ ECHS & Original L.C. Anderson Campus

Eastside Memorial Early College High School/International HS

Original L.C Anderson Campus

- Austin ISD would build a new Eastside Memorial ECHS/IHS facility at the original L.C. Anderson site and restore the historic campus entry. The facility will have a capacity of 800 students. Projected cost: $80 million
- As an Early College High School, Eastside Memorial offers students free, college-level courses and credit, and the opportunity to graduate with both an Austin ISD diploma and an associate degree from Austin Community College. Students can also benefit from partnership opportunities with ACC Eastview Campus and Huston-Tillotson University.
- LASA students and programs will move to the current Eastside Memorial campus.

LBJ Early College High School

- Career Launch, a partnership with Seton Healthcare Family and Austin Community College, allows students to earn their high school diploma and an associate degree in health science, preparing them to further their education in the medical field. The six-year program launches in fall 2017, and gives students the opportunity to earn industry certifications and gain practical workplace experience and mentoring.
- LBJ ECHS will be redesigned as a medical high school, expanding on the Career Launch option for students interested in becoming professionals in the health care and medical fields. Projected cost: $22 million.
- An on-site clinic will provide a resource for the surrounding community.

Liberal Arts and Science Academy

Eastside Memorial ECHS/International High School

- LASA would move to the existing Eastside Memorial facility and campus, with minor renovations being made to accommodate the LASA programs. Projected cost: $4 million.
- LASA could accommodate 1,600 students—an increase of 400 students—with a possible future capacity of approximately 2,000 students.
- The district has been reassessing admissions processes and re-evaluating enrollment criteria for LASA in efforts increase diversity.

Original L.C. Anderson Campus

- Eastside Memorial ECHS and International students will move to the original L.C. Anderson campus, which will include multipurpose rooms for community activities such as reunions and meetings.
- The campus will include a historic designation of the original site and a museum space/gallery area to celebrate and honor the legacy of the original L.C. Anderson site.
- The reconstituted and restructured Alternative Learning Center program, currently housed at the original L.C. Anderson campus, will be relocated and continue to serve students in grades 6–12.
